

Person of interest identified

Three shot Monday on Mass. Ave. near Tremont

BY SUE O'CONNELL

On Monday, just after 11:30 p.m. three people were wounded in a shooting. One woman was found inside 521 Massachusetts Ave., another found outside the building and a man found on Northampton Street near Shawmut Avenue.

Reports indicate a witness saying that a group of men opened fire on women and another group of men responded with gunfire.

Several cars were hit by gunfire. One nearby resident reports he heard what sound like half a dozen or so shots

Boston Police Superintendent-in-Chief William Ross said the women appeared to be hit by bird-shot, the man with a large-caliber pistol bullet. A shotgun and a pistol were recovered on Northampton Street. The victims are expected to survive.

Ross told the Boston Herald on Wednesday, "Right now, it looks like we do have a person of interest that we're looking at as one of the possible shooters."

Police urge the public with information to call 1-800-494-TIPS or text the word "TIP" to CRIME (27463) and report a crime anonymously to our Crime Stoppers unit.

Commerce Bank supports ARCK

Mr. Thall and Mr. Goldsmith also conducted a financial literacy workshop for parents of children served by ARCK, using the "Check It Out" curriculum from the FDIC.

The program focused on the benefits of having a checking account and

BCYF Girls Nights Start July 12

Boston Centers for Youth & Families (BCYF) invites Boston girls to Girls Nights, a series of free girls-only events. All activities are designed to bring girls together in a safe, non-competitive environment where they can be themselves, meet other girls their age and engage with role models.

Girls Nights also connect girls with resources and opportunities while they enjoy a positive and fun experience with their peers. Last summer over 1,000 girls participated in BCYF's Girls Nights.

The Girls Nights schedule is as follows:

Wednesday, July 12: "Beauties and the Beach" at BCYF Curley Community Center, 5-8pm. All ages Saturday, July 15: Girls' Night at Franklin Park Zoo, 4-7pm. Ages 6-18 Wednesday, July 19: Girls' rock climbing, games and BBQ at BCYF Menino Community Center, 5-8pm.

A Graduation Like No Other At Pine Street

On Friday, June 23, in an unlikely scene, homeless men and women, who range in age from their 20's to their 60's, wore caps and gowns and received "diplomas" under a big white tent to signify their achievement, as they celebrated completion of job training programs in food services and housekeeping. For many, this is the first celebration of an achievement they have had in their lifetime.

Pine Street Inn began creating permanent housing with on-site support staff for homeless men and women in 1984. Today, Pine Street has 40 locations with over 900 tenants throughout Greater Boston. Reaching more than 1,900 individuals daily, Pine Street provides permanent housing, job training, emergency shelter and street outreach, with a goal to help men and women reach their highest level of independence.

For more information, go to www.pinestreetinn.org.

“See her,” a collaborative mural in Boston lifts up stories of incarcerated women

See Her, a mixed-media mural conceived by artist activist Ann Lewis is now part of the urban landscape at 808 Tremont St. in the South End, a property owned and managed by The Community Builders adjacent to the historic People’s Baptist Church of Boston. The artist created the work in collaboration with women at the McGrath House, a reentry facility where incarcerated women serve the final six months of their prison sentences. McGrath House is a program of Community Resources for Justice (CRJ).

The mural was commissioned by Boston non-profit Now + There, known for its temporary, site-specific public artworks. See Her is the first artwork in Now + There’s Year of the Woman programming and will remain through October, 2018.

“This piece aims to champion feminist expressions in the realm of public art by supporting a female artist, lifting up community voices, and exploring the power of female resilience and creativity,” stated Now + There Executive Director Kate Gilbert. “We are proud to support Lewis’ vision which emphasizes the power of the choices we make every day.”

Lewis is known for delving courageously and unabashedly into the heart of pressing social issues. Trained in both graphic and fine art, the artist will use photographic imagery and paint in creating the 42’x38’ mural which will reflect on the inherent worth, strength and potential of women. “With my work See Her, I am asking viewers to look past their presumptions and see the human, the woman looking back at them,” Lewis said. “We cannot face the challenge of mass incarceration without first recognizing the value of those entrenched in our criminal justice system.”

Lisa Chute, Assistant Program Director at McGrath House, said that Lewis’ work with residents of the reentry center was a “perfect partnership.” “The women will see this mural on display in their community and know that they helped to create it. It’s a huge validation and a testament to their creativity and perseverance.”

“As part of the South End for more than 50 years, The Community Builders is thrilled to host this powerful mural at our South End Apartments development. The public art will be a vibrant addition to the neighborhood for residents and neighbors to enjoy,” said Stephanie Anderson Garrett, vice president of communications and fund development.

The public is encouraged to join in the conversation with the artist and Now + There through social media. Limited edition signed prints of the mural will be

Boston, MA 02116

Joy has gone through some tough times and is now ready for a fresh start! This 13-years young lady is sweet and affectionate with everyone. She has some tenderness in her back legs and would benefit from a gentle exercise regime. Joy loves hanging out with other dogs (especially small ones) but as she can't always move around as quickly as she used to, care should be taken to match her with an appropriate play mate. She isn't a fan of sharing her treats, so she may not be a great fit for young children. The shelter will help interested adopters learn to manage this behavior in the home prior to adopting. If you think you have room in your home and heart for this gentle sweet-heart, please plan a visit. Joy is already spayed and up to date on all her vaccines and can go home today! Please plan a visit to our shelter today or call 617.226.5602. The shelter is open Tuesday through Thursday 1-7pm & Friday through Sunday 1-4pm, excluding some holidays.

Senior Save Applications Now Available

What: City announced that applications are now available for Seniors Save, a proactive program that helps income eligible seniors replace failing or inefficient heating systems before winter begins? Applications are currently available through the Boston Home Center (BHC), by visiting the Department of Neighborhood Development's website, or by contacting one of the BHC's partner senior agencies. To qualify, income-eligible seniors must be 60 years of age or older, the occupants of a residential one-to-four family property or condominium in the City of Boston and income must not exceed 80 percent of median family income, as determined by the US Department of Housing and Urban Development. Eligible homeowners will receive a $3,500 grant towards upgrades to their heating systems. Any additional funding is available in the form of a zero percent interest, deferred loan, which will only be payable on the sale of the property, a refinance or transfer of the title. Once a senior citizen submits an application, BHC Construction Specialists will work with the homeowner on the scope of the project, and will help select a contractor from the BHC's pre-approved, licensed and insured contractor list. A BHC Construction Specialist will then oversee the work from start to finish.

More Info: To learn more or apply please call (617) 635-HOME, or visit the Boston Home Center website: <https://www.boston.gov/departments/neighborhood-development/how-join-seniors-save-program>

Unauthorized illegal fireworks too much this year?

What do you think?

BY SUE O'CONNELL

Every year for as long as most can remember, Massachusetts residents set off their own Fourth of July fireworks displays, even though state law says:

"It is illegal for private citizens to use, possess, or sell fireworks in Massachusetts, or to purchase them legally elsewhere and then transport them into the state. The law prohibits any article designed to produce a visible or audible effect."

This year, however, many long-term South End residents said the sound, fury, and duration of the explosions went way beyond what is tolerable in a city. Especially a city that hosts a world-class free fireworks display.

Wednesday's Boston Globe reported, "People turned to the city's 311 constituent service app on Wednesday morning to complain to officials that public spaces around the city were left in disarray after small arsenals of fireworks were apparently set off overnight, leaving behind litter and debris."

Below is a sample of comments to the South End Community Board of Facebook. Add your comments. Or better yet, contact your city and district lawmakers.

"The illegal fireworks on Mass Ave and Villa Victoria and elsewhere are outrageous. Called 911 and they said "we have calls all over the city". Shameful."

"I think they are running out. I know my dog is exhausted"

"It's almost lam even if they don't have to work in the morning some of us do! Ridiculous and extremely inconsiderate."

"They woke me at 1:30 AM!"
 "And at 3:30 AM!"
 "And the city just won't do anything about it. One of these years there will be a disaster and then the finger pointing will begin."

"Welcome to the world of how other folks do it. 1st time we had to put a Thunder Shirt on one of our dogs. Pure hell week for dogs."

"Noise aside, I was worried they might ignite a fire. Serious fireworks are really dangerous"

"not to mention all the trash left behind...this morning I saw the basketball court at peters and stretches of shawmut "I heard huge explosions at 3 am!"

"After the hour of midnight was uncalled for. People need to sleep."

"Hey, lighten up! It's the 4th, what's the harm in breaking the law, amirite? #sarcasm"
