COVID-19 Update

SUBMITTED BY THE CITY OF BOSTON

Mayor Martin J. Walsh announced strict new measures for social and physical distancing for residents in the City of Boston, in an effort to curb the anticipated peak of COVID-19 in the coming days. The new measures align with guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), and local public health officials, and if followed by all residents, are expected to reduce the impact and spread of COVID-19.

"I cannot stress enough that the actions we take now through the next several weeks will help curb the spread of this virus, and save lives," said Mayor Walsh.

"There is nothing that I won't do as Mayor of the City of Boston to protect our residents, and at this very critical time, we must do everything we can as Bostonians to protect one another. This is bigger than any one person - this is about the greater good of our people. Stay safe, stay inside, and let's get through this together."

To date, nearly 45 percent of positive tests in Boston are in people under the age of 40 and more cases of severe illness are now being seen in young people. Further, nearly 80 percent of positive tests are in people under the age of 60. The CDC estimates that nationally 25 percent of people infected with COVID-19 are asymptomatic, and may not know they are a carrier of the virus, or that they could be infecting others. As of April 5, 15 residents of Boston have died from COVID-19.

Social and physical distancing remain the primary strategy to reduce the spread of COVID-19. The new measures that Mayor Walsh is putting into place strengthen the guidance previously issued around social and physical distancing, which include staying home as much as possible and maintaining a distance of 6 feet or more from others. These new measures will be effective on Monday, April 6 through Monday, May 4, 2020, and include:

Encouraging everyone to wear a face covering over their mouth and nose when in public:

- In addition to social distancing when going out in public for an essential trip, wearing face covers will help to reduce the risk of a person spreading the virus, especially if they do not know they are sick. Face coverings should be worn anytime someone is outside the home, including on walks or other passive recreational activities.

- Face coverings should not be placed on children under 2 years of age, anyone who has trouble breathing, or is unconscious, incapacitated or otherwise unable to remove the cover without assistance.

- Face coverings can include a cloth, scarf, bandana, etc. that cover a person's mouth and nose. Home-made face coverings should be made of intact, close-weave cloth and allow comfortable breathing. Visit CDC guidelines on face coverings for more information and guidance.

- Face coverings should be

Advice on Pets, Life, Love

BY MONICA COLLINS

Dear Dog Lady,

If it is true that dog pee kills trees, how can we educate our neighbors, who continually let their doggies pee on neighborhood trees, to use other options — like fire hydrants, lamp posts, the curb and the street?

— Carol

Dear Carol,

Wince. Yes, it's true the uric acid in dog pee can have a harmful impact on trees. However, dog pee doesn't kill a tree suddenly but cumulatively over years. If a dog happens to sprinkle once or twice, the animal is not killing our beloved carbon absorbers — neighborhood trees — but maybe contributing to the slaughter.

So what can we dog keepers do to insure trees stay healthy? Well, we can do exactly as Carol suggests and guide our dogs to other places to relieve themselves. She presents an excellent list, starting with fire hydrants and lamp posts which are all over city neighborhoods.

Yes, it's hard to legislate where a dog lifts its leg. However, if you keep in mind your responsibility in preserving the world's treasures, perhaps you will be keener to take control instead of letting your dog go wherever it wants. Future generations will thank you.

Dear Dog Lady,

I read your column all the time and want to tell you about the game my dearly departed six-pound black poodle CoCo invented: When I was stretched out on the couch watching TV, CoCo (a female), ran into the bedrooms, bath, wherever and hid her dog cookie. She would come back and bark at me until I got up, found it and gave it back. The cookie might be behind the bathroom door, behind the leg of the bed, anywhere. She did this for years and it dawned on me one night as I hauled myself off the couch that she was the one who was supposed to fetch. Have you heard of dogs and/or cats inventing games for their owners to play?

— Anne

Dear Anne,

A dog's life is a giant game from beginning to end — from the first pounce on a ball, to a tug on a glove, to a "sit" for a treat.

You describe a wonderful game invented by CoCo. Why did your dog do this? Well, dogs love to bury stuff in the house. Hiding the cookie satisfied this primal need. Also, you weren't paying her mind while you lolled on the couch. Your dog wanted your attention and she worked it well. You rose to the bait every time — a fine game.

Poodles are considered the Einsteins of the dog world. The breed is highly regarded for its intelligence. CoCo was smart about pushing your buttons. You describe her wily ways so well.

Dear Dog Lady,

A letter-writer complained that she and her husband had "battled" their Pekingese puppy to go potty outside. The term "battled", as well as "cannot trust her" indicates to me that these folks think pets come with "batteries included".

Dogs respond to motivation, not to battle. Positive reinforcement brings faster results than punishing an animal with quarantine. Dogs are worth the time.

— Stephanie

Dear Stephanie,

Thank you for this attitude adjustment. We dog keepers must always remember we don't "battle" our dogs because, really, they do not deliberately try to make things hard for us. They are working with us; not against us. We should never imagine our pets holding down the fort in the enemy camp.

frequently washed using a washing machine with detergent and hot water and dried on a hot cycle. They can also be hand washed with soap and warm water and left to dry.

- It is advised that residents use a face covering, as opposed to a medical grade facemask, in order to preserve protective equipment for health workers and those serving on the front lines in response to COVID-19.

The Boston Public Health Commission is issuing a Public Health Advisory for everyone in Boston except essential workers to stay at home from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. daily:

- This advisory will address unnecessary trips to businesses, restaurants, and other locations, and is intended to encourage people to stay inside their homes at night.

- Residents are encouraged to utilize delivery services as much as possible after 9 p.m.

- As a reminder, residents are encouraged to remain in their homes as much as possible throughout the day and only leave for essential needs, including trips to the grocery store, pharmacy, emergency meal sites and other essential services. Residents are discouraged from visiting essential businesses only to browse and should be mindful of only visiting essential businesses to pick-up essential items.

- Closing City parks with recreational sports areas:

- Recreational sports areas in City parks, such as courts and fields, will be closed to limit exposure and contact between people. As a reminder, all playgrounds in Boston have been closed since March 20, 2020 and will remain closed. Areas for passive recreation, like walking and jogging, will remain open.

- Additional signage will be posted on all recreational sports areas and outside of parks that will be closed. For a full list of park features that are closed, please visit here.

- If needed, Boston Police are empowered to disperse gatherings and they can order people to vacate closed sections of parks.

Recommendations for people who are at higher risk:

- For people over 65 and those with underlying health conditions, the City of Boston encourages taking extra precautions. Trips outside the house should only be made when absolutely necessary, for either food or medications. Those experiencing difficulty with access to food, please call 311 or visit here for assistance.

- In addition, taking walks or spending time outside is discouraged for the next few weeks, and exercising inside the home instead is encouraged as an alternative.

- The underlying health conditions that can put someone more at risk are very common and include asthma, diabetes, heart conditions, kidney or liver disease or conditions that can cause a person to be immunocompromised, including cancer treatment and smoking.

- In Boston, over 11 percent of adults have asthma, and the rate is higher in black (15 percent) and Latino (12 percent) residents, as well as in Dorchester and Roxbury (15 percent each). One in four Boston public high school students have asthma, according to the Boston Public Health Commission.

In addition, in an effort to limit contact, effective Tuesday, April 7, City Hall will reduce the days of operation that it is open to the public to only Tuesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Public access to 1010 Massachusetts Avenue will be limited to the Boston Public Health Commission on the 2nd Floor and residents must be accompanied when entering the building. Additionally, everyone entering City Hall, including employees and members of the public, will be required to complete a self-screening for COVID-19 symptoms, including elevated temperature. Residents are required to make appointments if they need to visit any of the essential services offered out of City Hall, and can learn more about the status of city departments and hours of operation here.

Resources and information about COVID-19 are available on boston.gov/coronavirus. Resources available on boston.gov and through City departments include support for renters and homeowners; small businesses; free meals for Boston students; free toiletries for Boston students; emergency childcare centers – including 40 centers in Boston – support for older residents; information on homeless shelters; transportation options for healthcare workers; resources for those in recovery or those who have a substance use disorder; and mental health resources.

Boston Pride Events Postponed

Boston Pride and City of Boston Announce Postponement to 2021

SUBMITTED BY BOSTON PRIDE

Boston Pride and the City of Boston announced today that annual Pride events scheduled for June 2020 will be postponed to June 2021 due to the COVID-19 outbreak. The new date for the Boston Pride Parade and Festival is Saturday, June 12, 2021. The joint decision was made due to the concern of the health and wellbeing of the community and others. Boston Pride is commemorating its 50th anniversary during 2020 through 2021 to celebrate social, legal, and political successes, the LGBTQ culture and community—while continuing to work for social justice and human rights.

"I know this was a very hard decision to make and I know it's very hard news to hear, but it's the right decision. As we fight the coronavirus pandemic, everyone's safety and health is our top priority," said Mayor Martin J. Walsh. "To our LGBTQ community, we may not be able to celebrate Boston Pride 50th Anniversary this summer, but once we are able, we'll have the biggest and strongest Pride to date. The partnership between Boston Pride and the City of Boston has never been stronger, and I look forward to joining everyone to commemorate the many years of fighting for equality."

"Our foremost concern is for the health, safety, and wellbeing of the LGBTQ community and allies. We cannot afford to put anyone at risk. There will be time to celebrate the 50th anniversary of Boston Pride and recognize not only the struggles that our community has faced over the years, but also celebrate our strength and resiliency which we all need during this difficult time," said Linda J. DeMarco, President of Boston Pride. "We appreciate the City of Boston's support of our community during this difficult time."

Boston Pride is focusing on maintaining communication with its year-round volunteers who plan and execute its events and programming, sharing resources for LGBTQ people, and working alongside community partners who need support during this time. Boston Pride will continue to develop programming to commemorate its 50th anniversary and to connect with the community leading up to Pride events in 2021. Look for events that will include conversations with different leaders throughout the Pride movement, a series of photographs and images, and other virtual events. Programming announcements will be made on the Boston Pride website and social media platforms.

"These are challenging times for all of us and Boston Pride is particularly concerned with the status of our LGBTQ seniors, youth, and other vulnerable members of the community. As an organization dedicated to social justice, we are particularly concerned in protecting the vulnerable members of our community most at risk. This was not an easy decision to make as we understand the ripple effect, including a financial one, which postponing the events will have on our community, our partners and our vendors. We made the decision with the City to postpone out of an abundance of caution to protect the community and the Greater Boston region. We will work towards a safe and healthy Pride in 2021, when we know hundreds of thousands of our supporters, friends, and allies will be able to celebrate the decades of progress we've made safely. We truly are a community that cares for each other and we are #WickedProud."

HOMELESS SERVICES AND HOSPITAL CAPACITY

On April 2nd, Mayor Walsh announced that construction begins at the Boston Convention and Exhibition Center to add 500 beds for treating homeless adults who have tested positive for COVID-19 and need care, but do not require full hospitalization.

The City has released a Request for Proposals to secure a partner organization to operate the facility. If necessary, the Convention Center beds will be opened up for hospitalists to use for sub-acute COVID patients in the general population.

These 500 beds will bring Boston's total number of new beds for homeless individuals to over 1,000. This includes Boston Medical Center's Newton Pavilion facility, which the City and State are working to re-purpose as a medical facility for homeless residents affected by the coronavirus.

SMALL BUSINESS SUPPORT

On April 2nd, Mayor Walsh announced two new resources that will help small businesses during the public health crisis.

The City of Boston has created a Small Business Relief Fund. Drawing on a combination of City, federal, and private industry contributions, it establishes $2 million in grant funding—capable of providing a lifeline to hundreds of local businesses at risk of shutting down permanently due to the crisis. It will be administered as a streamlined version of the City's Small Business Financing program. Small businesses can begin applying on Monday, April 6.

The City of Boston has also created a Financial Relief Handbook and FAQ document for small businesses. It's a resource for navigating both public and private capital programs. It puts information and guidance about all the different programs together in one place.

HOUSING SUPPORT

On April 2nd, The Mayor announced a new fund to help tenants who fall behind on rent in Boston because of the public health crisis.

The City of Boston has identified at least $3 million in City and federal funds that can be repurposed quickly to help tenants who can't make their rent. This money will be targeted to households that have lost income due to the crisis, and who do not qualify for enough federal relief or unemployment benefits to make it up. The Office of Housing Stability will use its existing networks to get this help to where it's needed, quickly and fairly. Email housingstability@boston.gov to learn more.

The Mayor also expressed his support of state legislation that will put a moratorium on evictions and foreclosures throughout the state of emergency.

VETERANS

The City of Boston has been reaching out to veterans service providers and residential homes in Boston, to help them mitigate any risk and address concerns they have. Veterans and their family members can call 311 or email veterans@boston.gov to be connected to the City's Office of Veterans Services.

The City of Boston has also created a Pen Pal Program for veterans who may be feeling social isolation. We are working to identify those veterans now, and match them with volunteers who will check in with them periodically. If you would like to volunteer to be a penpal, please email vetvolunteer@boston.gov.

said DeMarco.

"Westand with our Boston Pride partners this year, next year, and always," said Chris Wayland President & General Manager, Boston Owned Properties & Regional Sports Networks. "NBC10 Boston, Telemundo Boston and NECN will commemorate the anniversary of their 50 years and look forward to once again safely marching side by side." NBC10 Boston, NECN, and Telemundo Boston, is the exclusive broadcast media partner of Boston Pride.
