SUBMITTED ST. STEPHEN'S

Teens in Print (TiP) is diving further into its multimedia work by collaborating with St. Stephen's Youth Programs and guiding their teens to create their very first podcast. *TiP*sters Nuriel Gutman and Pietro Waterman have spent the past few months working with students from St. Stephens alongside TiP youth facilitator Elvis Alvarado to write, record, and produce a podcast for Boston teens and their experiences.

“Watching the kids kind of lean into making a podcast from scratch and coming up with their own topics has made me feel way more emboldened to be creative in my own life,” Elvis Alvarado, TiP Youth Program Facilitator.

The podcast, “Real Teens, Real Problems,” gives teens a place to explore and handle their social and academic challenges. It hopes to

Supreme Court Allows Boston's Race-conscious Exam School Admissions Policy To Stand

SUBMITTED BY LAWYERS FOR CIVIL RIGHTS

The U.S. Supreme Court today turned away an appeal from a group that challenged the race-conscious exam school admissions policy used by Boston Public Schools for the 2021-2022 school year.

Together with other recent decisions, today's action by the Supreme Court signals an increasing unwillingness of federal courts to continue eroding Equal Protection principles, including diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI).

Enacted during the COVID-19 pandemic, the challenged admissions policy relied on GPAs and zip codes. It was designed to rectify previous inequities in the admissions policy at Boston's three highly selective schools (Boston Latin Academy, Boston Latin School, and the John D. O'Bryant School) and to promote

South End Serial Rapist Sentenced to Century Behind Bars

BY SOUTH END NEWS STAFF

A man who terrorized South End women through a series of home invasions in 2016 has been effectively sentenced to life in prison.

Ronald Brown received a 72-

105-year sentence on Tuesday, November 26 in Suffolk Superior Court, following his conviction on 21 charges including aggravated rape, kidnapping, and breaking and entering. The sentence, handed down by Judge Katie Rayburn, came after a jury found Brown guilty last Friday.

The case culminated with Brown's October 2016 arrest for a brutal attack on Clarendon Street, where he broke into an apartment, restrained

NOTICE

Public comment period on Proposed Regulations for Accessory Dwelling Units open from December 20 to January 10, 2025

The Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities invites stakeholders to comment on proposed Protected Use Accessory Dwelling Unit regulations through multiple opportunities, including written comments, webinars, and a public hearing.

The Affordable Homes Act, signed by Governor Maura Healey in August, creates nearly 50 policy initiatives to jumpstart housing production and make housing more affordable for Massachusetts residents. A key provision of the law allows accessory dwelling units less than 900 square feet to be built by right in single-family zoning districts.

The ADU provision goes into effect February 2 and allows communities to make reasonable restrictions and requirements. The Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities has drafted regulations intended to help communities adjust local regulations to be in compliance with the law and is seeking input from the public.

"ADUs are a simple way to add housing throughout the state while providing more options for older homeowners looking to age in place or families looking to give a child with special needs more independence," said Ed Augustus, secretary of the Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities. "The regulations we are developing will make it easier for communities to craft ADU ordinances that allow this housing with the ability to meet their local needs."

Visit Mass.gov/ADU to read the draft regulations and a letter from Secretary Ed Augustus, Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities.

The Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities is hosting two public Webinars on Tuesday, Dec. 10, and Monday, Dec. 16. For more information and to register, please sign up at Mass.gov/ADU. For those unable to watch live, a recording of the webinar will be posted on EOHLC's website.

EOHLC welcomes feedback on the draft regulations during the public comment period that will be open Friday, Dec. 20, through Friday, Jan. 10. In addition, a hybrid public hearing will be held on Friday, Jan. 10, 2025. Beginning on Dec. 20, a signup form and the in-person event location will be available at Mass.gov/ADU for interested stakeholders to register to attend the public hearing and submit comments.

The Executive Office of Housing and Livable Communities estimates this policy will result in the construction of 8,000 to 10,000 ADUs across the state, increasing the supply of homes and lowering costs for all communities.

Examiner, we have reason to believe that Ms. Gillespie's death is a homicide.

Preliminary information indicates that this was not a random act and that residents of the building and members of the public are not in danger. Investigators continue to gather information and we will release further updates when we can.

The Boston Police Department's Homicide Unit is actively reviewing the facts and circumstances surrounding this incident. Anyone with information is strongly urged to contact the Boston Police Homicide Unit at 617-343-4470.

Community members wishing to assist in this investigation anonymously can do so by calling the CrimeStoppers Tip Line at 1-800-494-TIPS or by texting the word "TIP" to CRIME (27463). The Boston Police Department will stringently guard and protect the identities of all those who wish to help this investigation in an anonymous manner.

Firearm Recovered After a Road Rage Incident in the South End

At about 10:37 PM, on Friday, December 6, 2024, officers assigned to District D-4 (South End) arrested Jair Furtado, 40, of Boston, on firearm charges.

Officers responded to the area of 145 East Berkeley Street for a report of shots fired. Boston Police Operations provided officers with information that a road rage incident had occurred and a shot was fired.

Upon arrival, officers observed two vehicles stopped at the intersection of Harrison Avenue and East Berkeley Street. Officers made contact with the operator of the suspect's vehicle and placed him into handcuffs.

Officers immediately observed a firearm inside the vehicle, and requested detectives to respond to the scene. The firearm was later determined to be a Springfield Hellcat with one round in the chamber, and eight rounds in the magazine. After a search incident to arrest, officers located a box of ammunition, and holster from inside the vehicle.

Officers were advised that the incident originated at Albany Street and East Berkeley Street. Officers were told that an argument ensued following a road rage incident, and the suspect shot at the victim's vehicle.

Furtado was placed under arrest and charged with Assault with a Dangerous Weapon, and Discharging a Firearm within 500 Feet of a Dwelling. He is expected to be arraigned in Boston Municipal Court.

Virginia on March 27, 1937. Don was an athlete from early childhood - playing football and scoring touchdowns on Friday nights, and a star pitcher who was recruited by Tom Yawkey and the Boston Red Sox. At 17, Don moved to Boston where he worked with his older brother Justice in dry-cleaning. Shortly after, Don met the love of his life Shirley Upshaw originally from Halifax, Nova Scotia and married her within the year. From this union, they were blessed with five children.

Don and Shirley began hearing about the teachings of The Honorable Elijah Muhammad from local representative Louis X (who later became Louis Farrakhan). They became known in the Nation of Islam as "the power couple", growing and developing as leaders together. Don Straughter became Don Muhammad and Shirley Straughter became Sister Captain Shirley.

Don was appointed as the minister of Muhammad Mosque #11. Don taught throughout North America and Europe, never missing an opportunity to bridge the gaps between the Muslim, Christian and Jewish communities. In his over 70 years of service to his community, he worked to quell gang violence, foster prisoner rehabilitation, empower his people, and ultimately, leave the world a better place.

A wake will be held on December 20, 2024, from 3:00-5:00 PM at Morning Star Baptist Church, 1257 Blue Hill Avenue, Mattapan, MA with a memorial service to follow at 6:00 PM.

two women, and sexually assaulted one of them. The incident occurred just months after his release from a previous 25- to 30-year sentence for a similar assault in 1986.

During the trial, prosecutors presented evidence of multiple break-ins targeting women in the South End neighborhood. The charges included witness intimidation and photographing an unsuspecting nude person, revealing a pattern of predatory behavior.

Brown has remained in custody since his 2016 arrest. The lengthy sentence ensures he will spend the remainder of his life in state prison.

Celebration of new space “Gold Hall,” which is on the site of the former Harriet Tubman House

SUBMITTED BY SKINS

To celebrate the historic awarding of a new performance venue and workspace by The City of Boston to Castle of our Skins, a ribbon-cutting ceremony and short performance by Castle of our Skins’ musicians was held on Thursday, December 5, 2024, at 10:30 a.m.

Mayor Michelle Wu and the Mayor’s Office of Arts and Culture announced that The City of Boston has awarded Castle of our Skins (COOS), a Boston-based Black arts institution celebrating cultural curiosity and Black artistry through music, education, and community-driven initiatives, a new performance venue and workspace named “Gold Hall.”

Through a competitive public process,

COOS successfully secured the space, which will be purchased for the symbolic price of $1. The 2,491-square-foot space, located at 566 Columbus Avenue in Boston’s Lower Roxbury/South End neighborhood, is in the historic jazz corridor and on the site of the former Harriet Tubman House. The new home and performance venue for Castle of our Skins will host performances, artist residencies, educational workshops, and community events, ensuring that Black creativity remains at the forefront of Boston’s cultural landscape. The space will officially open in 2027, following extensive renovations.

The space was made available through a Community Benefits Agreement as part of the Article 80 process for the large mixed-use development project. This affordable commercial space is restricted to nonprofit ownership in perpetuity, ensuring that the location remains a vital cultural resource for the city for generations to come.

greater racial, socioeconomic, and geographic diversity. The Boston Branch of the NAACP, the Greater Boston Latino Network, the Asian Pacific Islanders Civic Action Network (APIs CAN), the Asian American Resource Workshop (AARW), and two families of color intervened in the lawsuit to support the Plan.

The Plan was upheld by the U.S. District Court in Boston and subsequently affirmed by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the First Circuit. Today's refusal by the Supreme Court to hear a further appeal puts an end to the case. It follows the Court's refusal earlier this year to take up an appeal of a similarly race-conscious admissions policy for Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology in Virginia aimed at diversifying the student body. It also follows a ruling last week from a federal judge in Maryland, holding that the race-conscious admissions policy at the U.S. Naval Academy is necessary and supported by a compelling national security interest.

"Today's action by the Supreme Court confirms that school districts not only can but should take affirmative steps to ensure that educational opportunities are equally available to all," said Oren Sellstrom, Litigation Director of Lawyers for Civil Rights, one of the attorneys representing the intervenors in the case who helped to defeat the petition for certiorari. "Our schools are stronger when classrooms are diverse and students from a wide range of backgrounds can learn from each other."

"Ever since the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in the Harvard affirmative action case, right-wing groups have unsuccessfully tried to extend its reach to challenge diversity, equity, and inclusion," added Iván Espinoza-Madrigal, Executive Director of Lawyers for Civil Rights. "But today's action by the Supreme Court sends a clear signal: there's no appetite for extending the affirmative action decision beyond its narrow scope in college admissions."

The intervening organizations and families are represented by Lawyers for Civil Rights; Sidley Austin LLP; Mintz, Levin, Cohn, Ferris, Glovsky and Popeo P.C.; the Asian Outreach Center of Greater Boston Legal Services; and Asian American Legal Defense and Education Fund.
